8.7. If MegaFon gives to the Counterparty a time period for elimination of defects detected during interim or final acceptance of the Products, or the Agreement or the current legislation contains a provision enabling the Counterparty to eliminate defects found during acceptance of the Product, it does not deprive MegaFon of the right to claim penalty for delay of interim or final terms in accordance with this Article, if the defects found during the relevant acceptance of the Product have been eliminated after expiration of the interim or final deadlines, respectively.
